Post Stations

Description:

Post Station is a vertical distributor of voice, power and data, positioned over or near to a floor power and data source. It will raise all requirements to above desk level with the option of 2-3-4 or 6 outlets, including monitor screen bracketry supported off the Post Station.

Post Station can be provided as a free-standing element supported on a larger metal base with desktops, monitor supports and CPU enclosures or alternatively, it can be mounted floor to ceiling, taking services from above ceiling level.

There are so many applications and possibilities for Post Station, which makes it one of the most versatile products available. FGM's all important bespoke arm can also include Post Station within special specific requirements.
